

Lawmakers continue ASRM funding support

BY TRACI BONNEY

Mississippi's federal lawmakers have not abandoned their support of funding for the NASA Advanced Solid Rocket Motor program, although no such funding has been pledged as yet.

Rep. Gene Taylor said his efforts to obtain funding for ASRM have been "abitstymied," because the appropriations committee chairman, Rep. Jamie Whitten, has been in the hospital and is now at home recuperating. Access to him has been restricted to his family and a couple of staff members, so I haven't been able to discuss ASRM with him.

"I want something made at Iuka, and once it's made, I want to see it tested at Stennis."

Earlier this week, Sen. Trent Lott first criticized a $14.99 billion NASA budget that excluded ASRM funding, then met with NASA administrator

"I want something made at Iuka, and once it's made, I want to see it tested at Stennis."

Waveland takes step toward highway grant

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

The City of Waveland approved entry Wednesday into a Federal Aid Urban Agreement which could result in $60,000 of city street improvements.

City engineer Duke Levy said the city's entry into the agreement was the first step prior to application for a state highway department grant, 15 percent of which would be matched by the city. The grant monies would be limited to projects for improvements in street safety. He listed Nicholson, Coleman and Waveland Avenues, Beach Boulevard and St. Joseph Street as potential areas.

The board approved a $1,826 change order increase which will make the city's newest water well chlorination system compatible with existing well systems.

City utilities superintendent Mike Barnes explained that the well water contract called for a specific brand chlorinator or a comparable brand. He said the city's other wells had 'Advance Chlorinator' systems which could be serviced locally, thereby saving maintenance costs. The company constructing the well had chosen a less expensive brand, though compatible, which required service out of Jackson.

The board tabled a request by Treva Smart of the Epilepsy Foundation asking that the

Lott: Army near signing contracts for ammo plant

BY TRACI BONNEY

The Army is working on a "better mousetrap" of sorts for the ammunition plant at Stennis Space Center, according to a local plant official.

Lt. Col. Harry Sawyer said the Army's current contract negotiations have two parts. The first is to extend with Mason Technologies Inc. the present operation/maintenance contract that keeps the mothballed plant running until a new use is found for it.

The second, Sawyer explained, entails the facilities contracting process. This process allows MTI to actively seek work for the plant, from both MTI and outside companies.

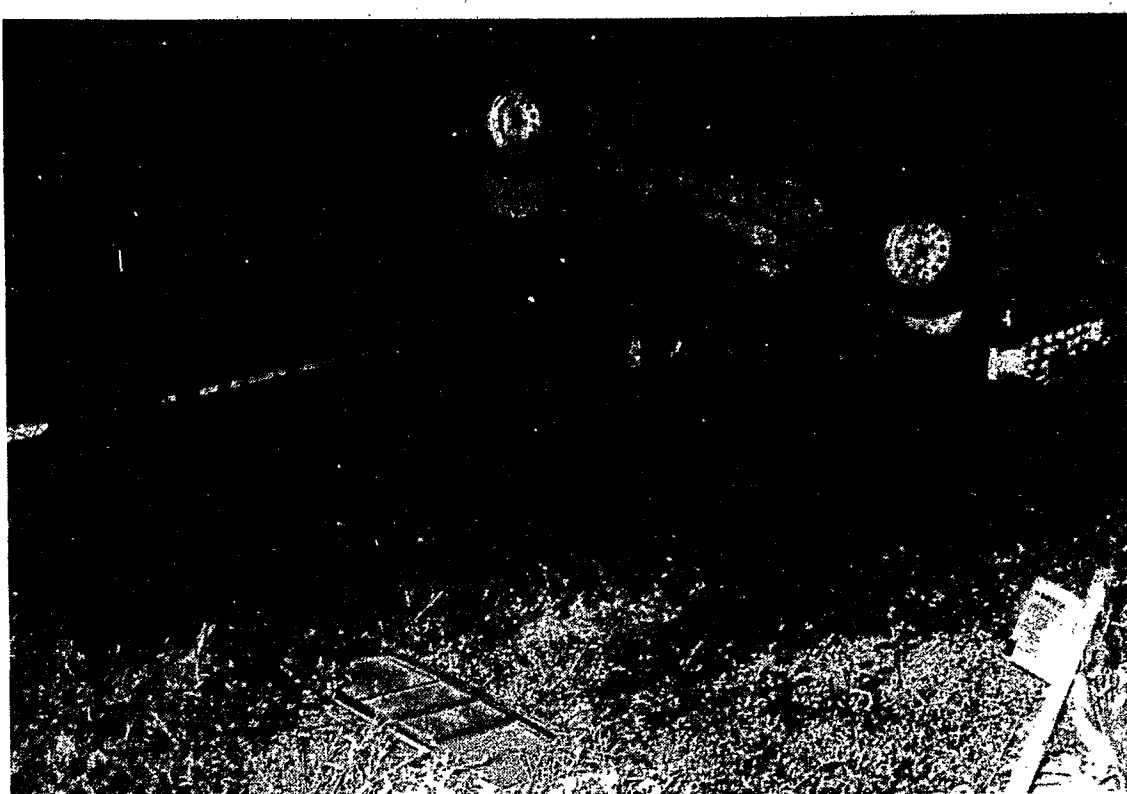

"These contracts, once they're signed, will give us a better mechanism to bring business to the plant," he added.

Sawyer said he hopes to see the new contractual arrangements in place in April.

His explanation and comments followed a press release from Sen. Trent Lott's office. Lott met with Gen. Jimmy Ross, commander of the Army Materiel Command, which has authority over the plant.

Lott stated in the release, "I strongly urged Gen. Ross to do everything that he can to bring these contract discussions to completion as quickly as possi-

Train hits stalled truck; driver exits before crash

For one local teen, "the wrong side of the tracks" almost turned out to be the top side of the tracks.

"I've heard stories of people stalling on railroad tracks and dying — and I didn't want to end up like that!" said 16-year-old Leo

Seal III after a Friday night accident.

Seal, a St. Stanislaus student and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Seal Jr., said he was driving a friend's truck when it stalled on the railroad crossing at Beach Blvd. in Bay St. Louis shortly after 10:30 p.m. He briefly attempted to push the vehicle off the tracks, but the sound of an approaching train caused him to retreat to a safer location.

The train struck the front of the truck, throwing it roughly fifty feet off the road toward the waterfront.

Though shaken by the incident, Seal said he was not injured.

Industrial park tenant site cleared of pollution threat

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Property formerly owned by Bergeron Marine Fabrications at Port Bienville was recently cleared by the state Department of Pollution Control, Zoe Bretzius-Bowers of B&B Services reported.

Bretzius-Bowers said the land had been left littered with cans of paints and solvents following the closing of the Bergeron business in the mid-1980s. Hancock County Port and Harbor received the news

March 9 that the release by the state would prompt the removal of the property from the Environmental Protection Agency's Super Fund list.

Hazardous waste division officer Jim Hardage of the state office reported, "I think they took care of the problem in 1986 when EPA removed the surface debris."

The most recent site inspection by the state was December 1991.

Hardage added, "The recommendation is for no further action. This recommendation will now be forwarded to EPA and the site will be removed from the national priority list."

Port and Harbor director Harold "Buz" Olsen said after Bergeron went bankrupt in the 1980's, EPA had up to three years to file suit against the company to demand reimbursement for the clean up.

He said the Bergeron site was

County schools to fade out centralized copying practices

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

County school board members voted to return to individual school copying machines Monday.

The board approved a recommendation by district business officer Lynel Necaie to rent five copying machines to be used by the teachers of the county's five schools, Hancock North Central Elementary, Gulfview Elementary, C.B. Murphy Elementary, Hancock Junior High and Hancock Senior High.

Necaie said the district spends approximately $47,000 a year through the present centralized copying practice, which includes ownership of the machine. A savings of $13,000 is anticipated by the separate schools usage of the five machines.

The rental machines will include maintenance and all supplies except paper. Necaie added that with ownership the maintenance is the most costly aspect of the service.

The change-over from centralized copying is expected to be completed by May.

Superintendent Myrna Bourgeois reported to the board that transportation director Donald Hillman withdrew his request for a hearing concerning the non-renewal of his contract with the district for 1992-93.

Bourgeois said Hillman has decided not to pursue the issue.

Hillman was principal of Hancock Junior/Senior High School prior to Spring of 1991. The board voted in opposition to his contract renewal last year. Hillman requested a hearing and prior to the hearing date the board voted to renew Hillman's contract. Immediately following the administrative contract renewal for 1991-92, Hillman was transferred from his position as principal.

In other business the board approved:

—the addition of three bus turnarounds to the present list for presentation to the board of supervisors;

—low bids for cafeteria equipment which included, fryers and filter systems, two burner stoves and a 40-gallon kettle. Purchase of the second lowest bid for a combination oven was awarded because of the compatibility of the electrical wiring to the present cafeteria outlets;

—low bids by line items for spring sports equipment;

—agreement and Local Maintenance Fund Payment Transfer Contracts for a transfer student with Pass Christian;

—usage of an existing pond on 16th Section Land to HHS's Future Farmers of America group for the farming of catfish;

—a leave of absence for Sue Dean, secretary to the district

Disabilities Act seminar offered at Gulf Park

The Gulf Coast Independent Living Center, the Mississippi Gulf Coast Chamber of Commerce and the USM/SBDC are jointly sponsoring a seminar on the Americans With Disabilities Act.

The free seminar will be Tuesday, March 24 from 6:30-9 p.m. at Hardy Hall on the USM Gulf Park Campus. Registration will begin at 6.

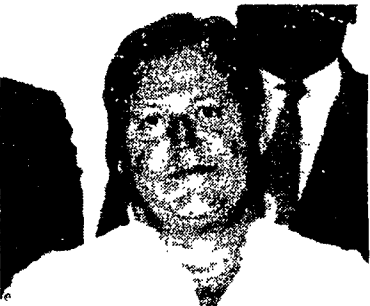

The ADA was enacted to provide access for all individuals into mainstream society. The five sections of the law address employment, state and local governments, including transportation, public accommodation, telecommunications and miscellaneous.

On Jan. 26, 1992 the public accommodation section of the law was implemented. This requires that all businesses, offices and places of recreation be accessible to all persons.

On July 26, 1992 Section One covering employment will be implemented. The businesses that will have to comply are those with 25 or more employees.

The seminar is free, but those interested are asked to call the USM/SBDC at 865-4578 and pre-register so that we may have adequate materials.

"Drugs—'Not' Today" art displayed at Kmart

Hundreds of local first, second and third grade students have responded to a drug education project, and the results are on the bag(s).

White bags decorated by some 1,300 students from every elementary school in Hancock County with anti-drug messages and artwork are on display this week at the Waveland Kmart. The "Drugs—'Not' Today" program was started as a cooperative effort between the stor and the Bay St. Louis and Diamondhead Rotary Clubs.

Jon Ritten of the Diamondhead club said the bags will be judged at Kmart. The winners will be announced in the Thursday, April 2 edition of The Sea Coast Echo.

One winner will be selected from each grade in every school, said Ritten. All winners will receive $50 savings bonds.

The theme, "Drugs—'Not' Today" was chosen, emphasizing the "Not," which is a popular catchphrase with pre-teens.

ble and get some work going on again out at the plant site.

"The Army is close to signing a contract for continued maintenance and oversight of the plant. In addition, at least eight private companies and government organizations are discussing contracts to use space at the plant."

Rep. Gene Taylor also voiced his continued support for reactivating the plant in some manner.

He said he will meet Tuesday with Economic Development Association and Office of Economic Adjustment officials to discuss ways to get the plant back in operation.

Taylor explained that OEA monies, about $50 million, had been set aside for communities that had been adversely affected by plant closures.

"It was my understanding that the plants were to be turned over to the communities for private ownership, then the monies to get the plants back into operation would flow through the communities."

"The problem in this case is that the Army never turned over ownership of the plant, and it's sitting in the middle of Stennis Space Center. So we're meeting Tuesday to try to find ways to make the guidelines work for us."

"The Army has agreed to let the plant be used by private businesses, but it has invested about $606 million in the plant, so the Army doesn't want to let go of the title in case there may be a need for the plant some time in the future."

nominee Daniel Goldin to lobby for support of the program.

Lott's criticisms came in Senate hearings in Washington, D.C., Tuesday, during which time he extensively questioned resigning NASA Administrator Richard Truly about the decision to cancel the ASRM program.

Truly and others reportedly testified that NASA could not afford the $469 million project in fiscal year 1993.

Lott contended that it will cost the government more in the long run to abandon the project, on which nearly $800 million has been spent, than to complete it.

However, Lott said he was pleased with his meeting with Goldin.

"He has assured me that he will be personally involved in the debate and any decisions relating to ASRM. I stressed to him how important I believe this project is to the future of NASA and to Mississippi," Lott commented.

FROM THE MISSISSIPPI SENATE

By Senator
Vic Franckiewicz

Over 200 bills and amendments debated in Senate last week

During the past week, the Senate intensely debated over 200 bills and constitutional amendments facing a floor action deadline. Most of the legislation was routine, but several measures were vitally important to Mississippi's long term future.

Education tops the list. We killed the Education Stabilization Act which would have unravelled the last decade of educational progress in this state. Wisely, the Senate passed instead the Excellence in Education Act of 1992.

This bill makes education a top priority. It requires educational budgets to be funded first, protects the Minimum Education Program from budget cuts, and revives many of the reform measures lost when the 1990 BEST education bill was not funded.

We still have a long way to go to get education back on track, but this bill is a step in the right direction.

The Senate also approved constitutional initiative to be on the November ballot. Even though it is a stripped down version of the initiative and referendum measure many of us pushed for, the essential elements of the people's right of self determination have been retained.

We approved two constitutional amendments to modernize county government.

Unlike cities, counties don't have a choice about their form of government. They are stuck with exactly what the constitution and the legislature tells them, regardless of what local people want.

If these amendments eventually pass, counties will have a choice. They would no longer be locked in to a form of county government dictated over 100 years ago by the writers of our 1890 constitution.

Other bills approved by the Senate before the deadline included election reform to tighten the voting process against fraud, some improvements to our criminal statutes, and tightening the law on punitive damages in law suits.

While we did some good legislating this week, we passed some lousy bills too. One bill started out to make fishing regulations in Mississippi compatible with Louisiana.

By the time it was amended, the bill left untouched Mississippi's 14" minimum speckled trout length (compared with 12" in Louisiana), and wiped out almost all of Mississippi's regulations on commercial seafood and recreational fishing. Hopefully, this bill will get fixed in the House of Representatives.

Another bad piece of legislation dealt with the Public Employees' Retirement Sys-

More than 170 bills clear the House

Workers' compensation, drug abuse, lobby laws, initiative and referendum, and a new program to help beginning farmers were among scores of issues vying for lawmakers' attention as the House of Representatives raced to meet a crucial deadline in the past week.

More than 170 bills cleared the House calendar in a concerted weeklong drive to meet the March 19 cutoff for floor action on general bills and constitutional amendments.

The Commissioner of Insurance would be designated as director of the Workers' Compensation Assigned Risk Plan under a far-reaching proposal to overhaul workers' compensation laws. There were no dissenting votes against the bill.

Key provisions call for a utilization review system to regulate medical charges. The House passed a sweeping proposal to deal with drug problems in Mississippi. The 73-page bill sets new penalties for various types of drug violations.

It would take several pages to summarize all House measures passed during the week, but some of the other major proposals include:

—A bill to create a state Department of Transportation with an elected three-member board to assume duties now handled by the Highway Department.

—A proposed new program to help beginning farmers obtain lower interest loans for buying farmland and improvements to farm buildings or fixtures.

—A proposed constitutional amendment to pave the way for consolidation of cities and counties if approved by voters in the affected areas.

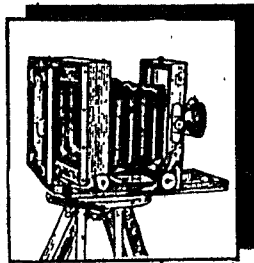

Any earnings the state receives from a state lottery would be earmarked for education under another House measure, to take effect only if the people vote this fall to remove the constitutional barrier against holding lotteries in Mississippi.

The House voted to overhaul laws involving lobbying with new reporting requirements for lobbyists.

One of the hottest debates of the week came on a proposal to let people vote this fall on initiative and referendum. The legislation narrowly failed to win the two-thirds majority necessary for adoption.

The House also narrowly defeated a proposal to raise resident hunting and fishing licenses.

Other highlights of the busy week included: strengthening the state's bingo laws; set up licensing procedures, and require strict oversight by the State Gaming Commission; boost the cost on all personalized license plates from $15 to $35 and permit use of seven letters on the tags, and there were numerous others.

Local women's tennis team reaches Cancer Crusade finals

Bay St. Louis tennis players Lis Lagarde and Ann Heitzmann reached the finals in the 18th annual Cancer Crusade tennis tournament last Sunday, but met their match in Laurie White and Jenny Farragut.

Lagarde, tennis pro at Bayou Bluff Tennis Club in Gulfport, and Heitzmann, who came into the tournament off a Women's 40 singles title at Hattiesburg, were seeded No. 1 in the tournament as they reached the championship match for the second straight year.

White and Farragut won eight of their last nine games to defeat the Bay team 6-3, 6-1 and capture the women's open division title.

White, who is finishing her second year as the men's and women's tennis coach at Spring Hill College in Mobile, played the net while Farragut played the back court.

The two women had never played together before, and were paired off for the tournament by Lagarde in her capacity as Bayou Bluff tennis pro.

Commercial snapper season closes

The state Commission on Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks voted recently to issue a notice of intent to close the commercial red snapper season in Mississippi waters effective April 25.

The action came at the recommendation of the Bureau of Marine Resources after the bureau received word that federal waters were closed to commercial red snapper season on February 22.

Tom Van Devender, BMR chief of saltwater fisheries, said the proposed Mississippi closure is an effort to cooperate with federal authorities.

Federal waters of the Gulf of Mexico were closed to commercial snapper fishing because the annual quota of 2.04 million pounds has been reached.

The proposal passed by the commission went to the Office of the Secretary of State for 30 days to await public comment.

After that period, the proposal will go back to the commission for final approval.

If it is finally approved, the measure will become law on April 25.

The commercial season will reopen January 1, 1993, in both state and federal waters.

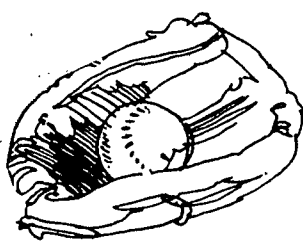

The season for recreationally caught red snapper remains open in Mississippi with a seven fish per person per day limit.

tem. We passed a bill allowing consultants into the retirement system, treating them as full-time employees even if they don't work.

Under Senate Bill 2730, a consultant on a $1 retainer contract would get the same credit for service as a full-time employee. This opens up the retirement system to all types of abuse, and endangers the financial soundness of our working employees' retirement trust funds.

The chairman of the Senate Finance Committee is concerned about this problem too, and he is working to fix it as the legislation works its way through the system.

The session now moves into a new phase when each house considers bills from the other chamber. As this process continues, I am interested in your input.

CLUBS, AUXILIARIES

American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139

The monthly sing-a-long for the residents of Hotel Reed Nursing Center March 5 was sponsored by Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Auxiliary Unit 139.

Lena Mae Oustalet played the piano while Roslyn Weathers led the singing. Residents enjoyed the psalms, gospel songs and the 'oldies but goodies.' Refreshments were served and everyone seemed to have had a good time.

The monthly meeting was held Monday, March 9.

President Janet Aime opened the meeting; color-bearers Roslyn Weathers and Hazel Wohlschlegel advanced the colors; chaplain Ursula Favre read the opening prayers; and a moment of silent prayer was observed for deceased members.

Aime introduced Gladys Bastian as a new member. She was given a warm welcome by the unit.

Before any official business was begun, the members were asked to assemble at the charter to remember and pray for Niece Saucier and to drape the charter.

Second vice-president Shirley Clemons spoke on the prizes to be awarded at the Bonco party on March 11.

The meeting was adjourned, and refreshments were served.

Sierra Club

Sierra Club offers a special forum March 26 entitled, "Large Scale Commercial Aquaculture Near Horn Island—Is It Desirable?"

Speakers include Jim Schmitt, president of Sea Pride Industries Inc. He will oversee the raising of millions of pounds of fish in sea cages located one to two miles south of Horn Island, a unit of Gulf Islands National Seashore.

Larry Lewis, chief, Coastal Management Program, Bureau of Marine Resources, State of Mississippi.

Lewis Skrimetta, member-at-large, Harrison County Tourism Advisory Board. He also has the Ship Island excursion boat, a concession of the National Park Service.

Dr. Ed Cake, CEO of Gulf Environmental Associates. Dr. Cake is an environmental consultant, and both government agencies and private industries are his clients.

Large scale commercial aquaculture in warm, shallow ocean waters is extremely experimental. There are serious concerns with regard to effluent (food and fecal matter; i.e., nutrient loading and dispersal along beach); reduced dissolved oxygen levels; and noise and light.

It is feared that there may be an unwarranted compromise of the integrity of Horn Island Wilderness Area, which is rigidly protected by federal law.

The public is invited to this free presentation held at the Marine Education Center (located south of U.S. 90 on the west end of the Biloxi-Ocean Springs Bridge). The program begins at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, March 26. For more information, call 435-2623.

The playful name alludes to a previous home, also owned by Mr. Hymel but destroyed during Hurricane Camille, and to the expansive Gulf view—a view enjoyed from the main section of the symmetrical, palladian-like structure as well as from each of its two wings.

Built as a retirement home, the construction was engineered to withstand 175 mile-an-hour winds, and all materials—inside and out—were selected from maximum longevity with minimum maintenance.

The main section of the residence, a "flowing living space," culminates in a virtually unrestricted command of the Gulf and opens to its persistent breezes. Suspended from the 18' cathedral ceiling is a circa-1890 three-tier, brass chandelier fashioned by Dutch craftsmen.

Of special note is the cypress tongue-and-groove loft face which overlooks the central space and which exhibits four functional portholes salvaged from the highly decorated WWII aircraft carrier, the USS Cabot-Dedalo.

Finished in a distinctive "tropical coral," the home is located on four acres of property featuring a swimming pool, tennis court, duck pond, and putting green.

City of Waveland AUDIT

PUBLIC NOTICE

The City of Waveland, Mississippi, has been audited by the accounting firm of Moore & Powell, C. P. A.'s, for the fiscal year ended September 30, 1991.

The audit was conducted under provisions of the Mississippi Municipal Audit and Accounting Guide as prescribed by the Mississippi Auditor of Public Accounts. As required by state law, the following is published for citizens' information:

MOORE & POWELL

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT

December 27, 1991

Honorable Mayor and Board of Aldermen
City of Waveland
Waveland, Mississippi

We have audited the accompanying general purpose financial statements of the City of Waveland, Mississippi, (the City) as of and for the year ended September 30, 1991, as listed in the table of contents. These financial statements are the responsibility of the City's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these general purpose financial statements based on our audit.

Except as discussed in the following paragraphs, we conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the general purpose financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall general purpose financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The City of Waveland does not maintain adequate subsidiary records documenting the existence and valuation of the assets included in the General Fixed Assets Account Group. In the absence of subsidiary records we are unable and do not express an opinion on the General Fixed Assets Account Group.

The City's Bond and Coupon Fund and State Loan Retirement Fund are debt service funds financed by general tax revenues. Over the years, revenues not used for debt retirement have been loaned to other City funds and to its Utilities system. We have not been able to satisfy ourselves as to the legality of these loans or to the existence of any contingencies which might exist in connection with these loans. The question of the legality of this type of loan has been referred to the City Attorney for resolution.

Due to weaknesses in internal controls over the police department, it was not practicable to satisfy ourselves with respect to the reasonableness of the court fines and fees beyond the amounts recorded as received.

In our opinion, except for the effects of the matters discussed in the preceding paragraphs, the general purpose financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the City of Waveland, Mississippi, at September 30, 1991, and the results of its operations and its changes in cash flows of its proprietary fund types for the year then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

Our audit was conducted for the purpose of forming an opinion on the general purpose financial statements taken as a whole. The combining, individual fund and account group financial statements and schedules listed in the table of contents are presented for purposes of additional analysis and are not a required part of the general purpose financial statements of the City of Waveland. Such information has been subjected to the auditing procedures applied in the audit of the general purpose financial statements and, in our opinion, except for the effects on the general, debt service and general fixed asset account group as discussed in the previous paragraphs, such information is fairly presented in all material respects in relation to the general purpose financial statements taken as a whole.

Two jubilarians honored at SSC

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

Looking out over the grounds of St. Stanislaus, sat two of its most recently celebrated jubilarians.

Brother Aubert Rebman SC and Brother Pascal Ackerman SC spoke of the 65 years each has served as Brothers of the Sacred Heart.

Brother Aubert served as a prefect of an orphanage in Biloxi, which at one time served 125-boys.

"I was like a parent to the boys," Brother Aubert stated. "It was quite a responsibility."

Also known for his electronics expertise, he explained that it was through the necessity of repairing various equipment belonging to the religious order that he became so adept.

Brother Pascal is renowned on the SSC campus as a former tennis player and coach.

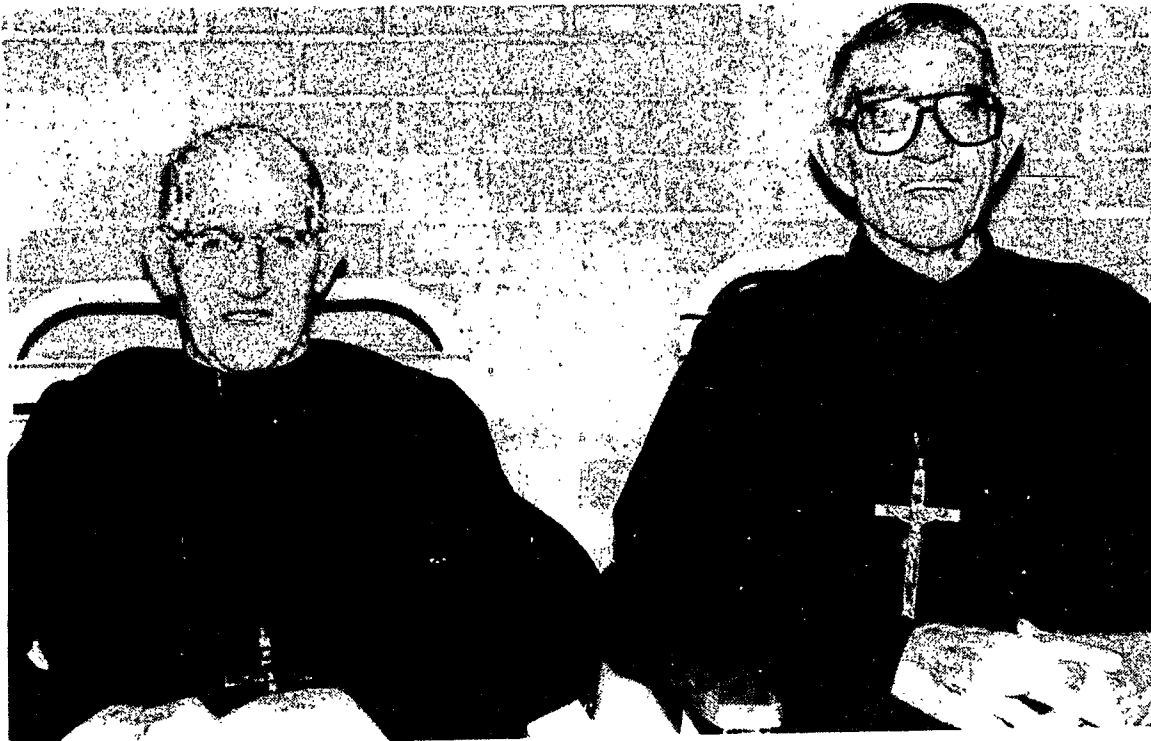

Along with his other ministries he was a professional tailor for the Brothers, sewing over 3,000 cassocks.

Today, Brother Pascal works on official correspondence in pursuit of the canonization of a seventeenth century Brother.

"Brother Polycamp was a Frenchman who lived from 1801 to 1859 and served as Superior General to the order," reported Brother Pascal. "The correspondence on Polycamp keeps me quite busy."

Brother Aubert is best known on the SSC campus for his favorite past time, fishing. SSC hosts an annual Brother Aubert Fishing Rodeo.

"I enjoy showing the boys how to fish," Brother Aubert

Brother Pascal Ackerman and Brother Aubert Rebman

remarked, with a broad smile. "I have caught many fish in my life, all sizes imaginable, and I hope they can learn to enjoy it as much as I have."

The students and faculty of St. Stanislaus honored the two Brothers during a liturgical celebration February 28.

The Very Rev. William Kelly, SVD, rector of St. Augustine Seminary, and the Rev. Peter Mockler, pastor of Our Lady of the Gulf Church, concelebrated the mass.

Dr. Michael Ryan, SSC principal, spoke about Brother

Aubert's 65 years of service and the various ministries of education in which he served.

Myron Labat, SSC teacher and tennis coach, spoke of Brother Pascal's 65 years of service, commenting about his tailoring skills and tennis court prowess.

Congratulatory cards signed by the faculty, staff and students, as well as bouquets of red roses were presented to both the jubilarians.

Brothers Aubert and Pascal were honored by the faculty and staff at a reception after school.

Speaking on the demands of a religious life, Brother Aubert commented, "Today most young men entering an order do not take their final vows, some can't stand up to it."

"I expect some time in the future there will be some changes made to encourage entries."

For both these men, there are no regrets, only the rewards of a vocation which they continue to serve in the eighth decade of their lives.

Reflections

On Life

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

Out with the blahs!

"Spaced Out: Blastoffs now give us the blahs," ran the headline of a column by Christopher Rose.

"No matter how spectacular an event, routine will erode its novelty, its ability to awe and inspire."

"And that's why no one seems to care when the space shuttle flies anymore. After all, this is just a huge plane performing miracles of modern science."

Rose goes on to describe the sharp decline in shuttle launch spectators and related traffic jams. "People yawn and go on to other things," he finally concludes tiredly.

Mostly true. And it's a horrendous shame that we allow ourselves to succumb to those irksome laws: "Familiarity breeds contempt," and "We take the usual for granted."

Your memory is not deceiving you. We have gone over this territory before. Sadly, we will have to review this same road numerous times in the future, for it is part of the nature of this beast that we must be constantly reminded.

"You don't miss your water till your well runs dry." In plain language, we miss only what is gone or in danger of leaving. We ignore the rest benignly by taking almost everything and everyone close to us for granted.

Central Baptist Church offers free movie showing

The movie "Tomorrow Never Comes" will be shown at Central Baptist Church, located at 1203 Hwy. 90 in Bay St. Louis today at 6:30 p.m.

The film is a dramatic presentation of the corruption that lures young people today—drug and alcohol abuse, misguided peer pressure and promiscuity. Like many young people, Karen's main problem is lack of faith.

Admission is free and cokes

No wonder most people gradually begin seeing their family members with jaded eyes just as Rose viewed the shuttle. It is no wonder that there is nothing spectacular left in most families; at least, not in the eyes of the members.

Rarely do family members recognize the full potential of the individuals in their bosom. It seems that their eyes are held from admitting that someone who is so well known to them could have any special talent or charisma.

Leave it to outsiders to perceive, point out and show appreciation of a person's gifts, charms and abilities. It is baffling that one's own family so easily overlooks even one's most obvious assets and skills.

The most irritating part of this phenomenon is the quickness with which a family member, while ignoring other family members, will compliment and praise the identical talent, accomplishment or trait in an outsider or even a stranger.

Certainly, no family member or close friend is a sage, guru or prophet of any kind. But just let someone come in from any place away, and, indeed, there is a prophet!

Let Jesus tell it, as he toured his hometown: "A prophet is not without honor except in this native place and among his own kin and in his own house" (Mk. 6:4).

However, I have a deep personal feeling about the space shuttle launches which departs sharply from what Christopher Rose tells us. The shuttle, rockets, airplanes, planets, stars, clouds, lightning, thunder and storms have never lost their glamor and spectacular drama for me.

True, some of the hair-raising history of the first moon spacecraft is missing, but I do not wish to miss a single launch, even though it is only on TV. This is, no doubt, related to the fact that I never find boring the sight of a jet or the sun rising or descending.

No matter how familiar, things are every bit as exciting as we allow them to be. So are people such as our parents, spouse, children, relatives, friends and acquaintances.

Helpful tips enhance home without major cost

The rite of spring cleaning is probably as old as spring itself. After a long, hard winter, the first warm breeze of the year casts our surroundings in a fresh light, and stirs our instincts to rejuvenate and improve our nests, to plant and make new starts. The familiar environment we usually take for granted, its dust and dirt, suddenly become as intolerable as the thick wool sweater we hibernated in all winter.

If you are considering redecoration rather than work should not have overhead or fluorescent lighting. Both tire the eyes. Track lights are a nice addition to any room, especially the living room, where the lights can be pointed in different directions to illuminate artwork, photographs, or a bouquet of fresh flowers.

Borders and trompe l'oeil

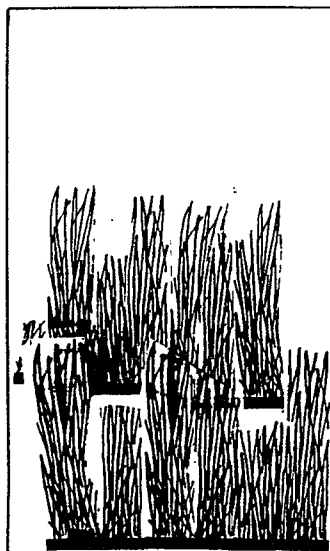

Decorative borders that run along the top of the walls can be pasted on in a short time. They come in a variety of motifs such as Ionic columns, floral patterns and trompe l'oeil, and are in inexpensive way to add character to a room.

Fabrics, glass, and mirrors

If all new furniture is out of the question financially, recovering or simply covering tables and armchairs with a fabric that matches carpeting and drapes might to the trick.

decorating one or all of the rooms in your house, it's helpful to make some mental notes before making any purchases or hiring contractors.

Remember that every room has a focal point. In the living room, it may be the fireplace. In another, visitors might be drawn to the window. Always identify the strong visual elements in a room and be sure to complement them—with mirrors or matching or contrasting colors, for example—rather than crowd them or detract from their effects.

Often minor, inexpensive decorations can revitalize a room you thought needed a major overhaul. Here are some inexpensive, yet versatile decorating elements to consider:

Lighting

Not all light bulbs need to be soft white, which, contrary to their name are rather harsh. Yellow or golden light is not as blinding and uses less wattage. Golden light even makes a nice substitute for candlelight since it provides a similar warm glow.

Wooden tables become elegant when covered with a fitted piece of glass. Glass shelves are a light, airy, unobtrusive addition. And, why not get more use out of your crystal bowls by filling each with potpourri and leaving them permanently throughout the house?

If one room or your entire apartment is just too small or too dark, mirrored tiles can be a solution. They come in a variety of sizes and colors and can cover as much or as little wall space as desired. Or, to make a room seem double its actual size, place a standing mirror in a corner from floor to ceiling.

A sense of style

It is often said that the most fashionably dressed women with the most developed sense of style are never the wealthiest.

The same principle applies to home decorating: It's the artistic eye of the resident, not the wallet, that makes for a beautiful home.

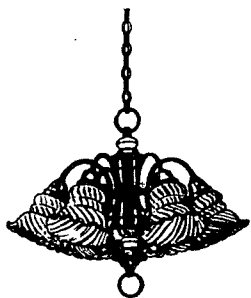

Humming attractions

Plan time and priorities to meet spring yard needs

By Dr. Milo Burnham
Horticulturist
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

There are so many things that need to be done in the yard at this time of the year that it's hard to know where to begin. You may not be able to finish one job before beginning the next, but by setting priorities and scheduling time, you may get the most important items accomplished.

Two time consuming jobs are applying the pre-emergence herbicide to control summer weeds and trimming the liriopie (or monkeygrass) before the new sprouts get too tall to clip. If you choose to trim the liriopie and miss putting out the pre-emergence herbicide, in most cases you have a second opportunity to control the weeds with a post-emergence herbicide later.

Clipping liriopie by hand is a tough, time-consuming job. If you use your rotary lawn mower, sharpen the blade both before and after clipping the liriopie. A string trimmer won't do a satisfactory job (clean straight cut) on liriopie.

This is also the time to fertilize trees and shrubs so nutrients will be available to the plants when growth resumes.

Over-seeded lawns and cool-season grasses have greened-up in recent weeks and will require fairly regular mowing to keep them looking good. These lawns will benefit from an application of nitrogen fertilizer.

Warm-season grasses may appear to be greening-up from the weed growth but do not need fertilizer yet. Mowing will improve appearance and keep weeds from setting seeds.

Most summer and fall blooming perennials can be divided during the next few weeks. Don't delay too long so the divisions will have an opportunity to become established before the weather gets hot.

Don't attempt to divide spring blooming perennials shoot buds with attached roots.

Pansies should be at their best over the next several weeks. If yours don't seem to be flowering as well as you'd like, it may be because many of the earlier flowers are developing seed. As the seeds mature, flowers produced by the plants are reduced.

To correct the situation, "dead head" the plants by picking off all the spent flowers and developing seed capsules. If the number of plants is relatively such as shasta daisies or iris until after they bloom. Peonies should have been divided last fall. Liriopie is one of those plants that can be divided at almost any time of the year.

Hosta plants I've divided in the fall after growth stops grew much better in their first growing season than plants divided in the spring before growth resumes. If you have hosta plants that need dividing or that you want to divide to increase their number, go ahead and do it before they make much growth.

If you can't locate clumps until the shoots begin to poke through the soil, divide the plants at that point by separating the clump into individual low, you should do this weekly to extend the bloom period of the plants.

Dead head daffodils too after the blooms fade to prevent seed development. Plant reserves that would have gone into the developing seed will go into the bulb making a stronger bulb and more and larger flowers next year.

If this doesn't seem like enough to do, don't forget that the muscadine vines need pruning, fruit tree pruning should be finished before the trees begin to bloom, and the spray programs on fruit trees for control of insects and diseases begin before the tree come into bloom.

There just doesn't seem to be enough time!

Good laundry design saves time and energy

Now more than ever, busy homeowners juggle work, family and leisure in an effort to maintain a balanced and satisfying lifestyle. For them, time saved on everyday tasks means time more happily spent elsewhere.

So when homeowners nationwide recently took time to design efficient home laundry areas, they not only made life easier for themselves but also were recognized for doing so by Maytag Company and Woman's Day Kitchens and Baths in Good Laundry Design Contest.

around shelf near the washer and dryer. The shelf holds laundry ready to be washed or folded.

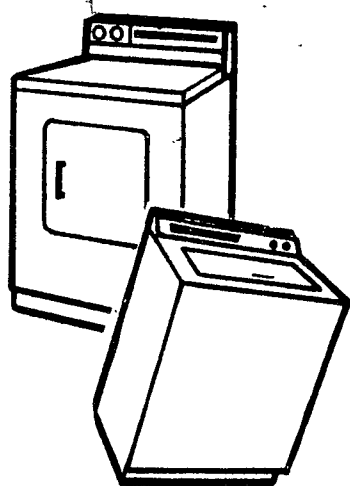

Locate laundry equipment near a sink and storage. Cabinets conceal laundry supplies and, when located near a sink, double as storage space for stemware, glasses and bar items.

Place related conveniences near laundry equipment. A couple with two active children installed a drip-drying closet next to the sink and laundry equipment by using a shower-floor base with a drain and ceramic tile walls. They also installed a low faucet and clothing rod.

Double up on space with stacked laundry equipment. A single mother living in an older home installed a stacked washer/dryer in a compact closet near the garden and central kitchen island. On the inside closet door a fold-down ironing board saves even more precious space.

Locate laundry equipment adjacent to existing plumbing. When the most convenient plumbing hook-up seems awkward, consider locating appliances behind louvered cabinets and folding doors for easy concealment when not in use.

More ways to design and equip an efficient laundry area are available in Maytag Company's Contemporary Laundry Planning. To order a copy of the booklet, send your name and address and $1 per copy to Maytag, Department 38YG-MT, Newton, Iowa 50208.

If you're as busy as the contest entrants, you too may benefit from putting theirs and other ingenious ideas to use. Consider the following:

PUT AN END TO THE THREAT OF TERMITES.

Some True/False Questions About Termites.

True or False? Termites can only attack a home if there is wood in direct contact with the ground.

FALSE. Termites can build mud tunnels many feet long to carry them across concrete, iron, treated wood, or any other material to reach the vulnerable wood in your home. Termites have been known to eat a wooden knob off the top of a thirty-foot-tall steel flagpole.

True or False? If you've never seen a termite swarm, you've got nothing to worry about.

FALSE. Most people with termite-infested homes have never seen a swarm. Termites swarm only once or twice a year, and only for a few hours. If you're not right there at the right time, you can easily miss it.

True or False? If you do see a termite swarm inside, it means your house is infested by wood-damaging termites.

FALSE. A swarm inside or outside a house should be a warning that termites are present in the soil beneath. It is possible that wood-eating workers have not yet invaded. Swarms will not eat wood, so there is no reason to fear them. Call for an immediate professional inspection, though, before workers become a problem.

True or False? Subterranean termites don't always live underground.

TRUE. Most subterranean termites build nests in the soil, and then tunnel into a home. But under certain moisture conditions, subterranean colonies can exist within the building under attack. To correctly determine where termites are, and to be sure you're getting the right protection, always call a trained professional.

True or False? Some types of construction are "termite-proof".

FALSE. Many types of shields and walls have been devised to prevent termites, but none of them has been 100% effective, and termites can find a way around them.

True or False? Termites don't attack homes built on slab-type construction.

FALSE. This kind of home is particularly vulnerable. Termites can enter through concrete, mortar, and brick. And once inside a slab-type home, they're almost impossible to detect until damage is discovered.

True or False? Termites can be found in new homes.

TRUE. It's not just in old or run-down buildings that termites are found. They've been discovered in new houses as early as four days after construction was completed. What you don't know about termites can hurt you, but don't be frightened... be protected. Extend the life of your carpet with maintenance

When you think about spring cleaning, do these chores come to mind—washing windows, waxing kitchen floors, cleaning curtains, scrubbing bathroom tiles?

Well, now you can put something truly imaginative on your list: Adding stain resistance to your old carpets.

Whatever type of carpet you have, it's wise to vacuum regularly and clean up spills promptly. Periodic professional cleanings will also prolong the beauty of your investment. This will remove tiny particles of damaging grit and soil that even vacuuming won't remove.

Here are some things you can do to maintain your carpet's appearance in between professional cleanings:

- * Treat accidental spills promptly, removing as much of the material as possible.

- * Blot the area with paper towels. Start from the outer edge of the stain and move towards the center. Don't scrub.

- * Wet the area with cold water, but do not over wet as this may saturate the carpet backing.

- * Blot up excess water gain with paper towels. Don't use a brush or sponge.

- * If the stain remains, apply a mild solution of non-bleach laundry detergent (1 tablespoon detergent in 1 quart of cold water) to the stained area. Rub it deeply into the carpet.

Rinse the area repeatedly with cold water, blotting thoroughly with paper towels, until

Wallpapering tips for a professional job

When papering your walls, keep these helpful tips in mind.

When hanging a large scale pattern in a room that has a fireplace, center the first strip over the fireplace and hang to the right. Then go back and hang to the left. If you're going around the whole room, plan to end in an inconspicuous corner.

Never "wrap" a whole strip around inside corners, without cutting and realigning. It may look okay at first, but in a few weeks, wrinkles and creases might appear.

When using no-match, plain textured wallcoverings, reverse every other strip top to bottom for uniform color.

Never use a seam roller on flocked wallcoverings. Gently tap the seams with the edge of a smoothing brush.

Check the run numbers on your rolls before you start to make sure they're the same, as color may vary slightly from run to run.

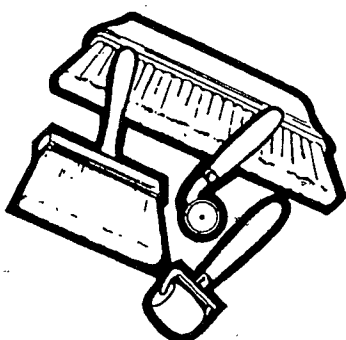

If you're not going to paper into the inside of an arch or frameless window or door, trim the wallcovering with your razor 1/4" from the outside edge. This will prevent fraying or pulling from the outside edge.

Ceilings, like walls, are not always "true." So plan to end the ceiling wallcovering on the less critical side of the room, like above the entrance.

When using the same pattern on the ceiling and walls, it can only be matched one way, so choose the direction most frequently looked at.

To match the pattern, trim the ceiling wallcovering so there's a 1/4" overlap on the sidewall. Match the first sidewall strip at the ceiling line, overlapping 2" as usual. Smooth the strip down. To trim the overlap, score it with a pencil at the joint. Pull the wallcovering back and cut on the scored line with scissors. Smooth it back down. It's matched!

Where vinyl wallcoverings overlap in corners, at ceilings, etc., you'll probably need to use a vinyl to vinyl adhesive to make them stick together. Ask your dealer.

Organic gardening eliminates chemical pesticides, fertilizers

BY RANDALL SMITH

Ye Gads! There is a creepy crawler on my dermaters. Oh my God! There's a spot on my cucumbers. I don't relish using nasty sprays! These dramatizations expressed by many gardeners indicate their desire to raise quality vegetables while avoiding synthetic chemicals and fertilizers. This approach is better known as organic gardening.

Yes, I know what you are thinking. People who abide by this concept must be a half bubble of plumb or they must have been a bunch of hippies that grew up or worst yet, environmentalist with a capital E.

My goodness, what's the world coming to. Well hold on to your drawers when I tell you that many of these methods have been around for years. Some have been and still are considered sage gardening practices. It's a fact, people are concerned about the environment and what they ingest.

With organic gardening, much of the emphasis is on reducing or eliminating chemical pesticides and synthetic fertilizers.

This concept is nice but in reality Mississippi organic gardeners face serious problems from inadequate soils and severe insect and disease pressures. To increase success, organic gardeners should have their soil tested for pH and nematodes, and scout the garden twice a week.

Acid garden soils can be corrected organically with limestone, ground oyster shells, wood ashes or dolomite lime. Fertilizers most frequently used by the organic gardener are generally animal manures (only use those sold by garden centers).

The composition of animal manure varies according to the source, age, degree of rotting, water content and amount and kind of litter used. Most organic fertilizers do not possess the correct nutrient balance required by most plants and must be supplemented.

For example, a well leached animal manure contains an estimated ratio of 1-1-1 (nitrogen, phosphorous and potassium, respectively) or 20 pounds each of nitrogen, phosphorous and potassium per ton of manure.

Organic fertilizers also release nutrients slowly. This prevents leaching, but can create problems where rapid nutrient exchange is necessary.

Commonly used organic fertilizers can be categorized by rate of availability. Rock phosphate (0-20-30-0) and sawdust (4-2-4) are very low, bone meal (1-15-0) and cotton seed meal (6-3-15) are slow to medium, compost (up to 3-1-1) is low, cow manure (.25-15-.25) is medium, dried blood (12-1.5-.5) is medium to rapid, and fish emulsion (5-2-2) and wood ashes (0-1 to 2-3 to 7) are rapid.

The control of diseases and insects by natural means alone is often difficult because of the large number of pests capable of infesting our plants. It is often advisable to organic garden on a small basis, especially in the beginning.

To increase the organic gardening success rate, a comprehensive approach should be implemented. These practices include planting disease and nematode resistant varieties. For example, the tomato variety Celebrity is resistant to Fusarium Wilt, Verticillium Wilt, Root Knot Nematodes and Tobacco Mosaic Virus; employing the use of marigolds, solarization, crop rotation with non-susceptible crops (corn), sanitation, weed control, resistant varieties and specifically labeled organic products.

Be sure to read and follow all label directions to control parasitic nematodes; planting seed from disease free plants and planting healthy vegetable transplants; installing a cardboard collar around plant stems at ground level to prevent cutworm damage;

Incorporating plant residues and animal manures in adequate time for decomposition; utilizing mulches to control weeds and reduce soil carrying diseases from splashing onto plants and fruit;

Repelling virus transmitted aphids and thrips with aluminum foil or silver painted plastic; planting as early in the spring as possible to avoid some insect problems; reducing disease and insect harboring weeds;

Handpicking insects; watering early morning to encourage drying and discourage disease; removal of diseased plants and plant parts from the garden;

Controlling insects with beneficial insects (Convergent Lady Beetle, Assassin Bug, Tiger Beetle, Praying Mantis, Minute Pirate Bug and Green Lacewing) and labeled natural products.

Remember, natural pesticides are poison and should be handled with care and according to label directions. Employ rotation practices with nonrelated vegetables; trapping slugs under boards and moist burlap or using beer traps (what a waste of beer, and I don't even drink);

Avoid entering a wet garden to prevent disease spread; avoid tobacco products while working the garden to prevent the spread of tobacco mosaic virus; and finally mix different suitable vegetables within a row to eliminate mono-culture and reduce rapid spread of diseases and insects. Organic gardening can be challenging and fun.

Borders add style on limited budget

Even with a limited budget, a little imagination combined with a sense of style can make a little decorating go a long way.

The use of wallcovering borders is a good example. They are inexpensive, yet they can perform miracles in transforming an ordinary room into a fashionable one.

Available in a range of patterns, designs and colors, and in widths ranging from two to 20 inches, borders are easy to apply to plain walls to give a room a decorative accent. Or, they can

GOD'S LOVE APPEARS IN THE LOVELY PASTELS OF SPRING

When winter snows have joined the past,
With skies no longer overcast,
The sun will shine and soon, at last,
A new day it will bring;
Announced by every balmy breeze,
While barren branches by degrees
Will turn to green upon the trees,
Where birds begin to sing.
The butterflies are everywhere,
And flowers' perfume fills the air;
Their pastel beauty meant to share
With every living thing.
Your faith will help you understand
The love of God, when He has planned
That everything upon the land
Will come to life in spring.

LIVE THE LEGEND!

1924

John Calvin Coolidge is elected president, Prohibition is in full swing and the '20's begin to roar. Across America, young women known as "flappers" dance the sensational Charleston, to music composed by black musicians Cecil Mack and Jimmy Johnson.

Meanwhile in Hancock County...

The passive village of Edwardsville, on Bayou Galere in its Acadian setting, where the oaks spread widest and are bowed with age, where the moss hangs in festive festoon, was torn to shreds of excitement yesterday morning when it was learned by the denizens of that locality that Hancock Sheriff Joseph Bontemps, Deputies J.C. Jones, L. Necaise, Eddie Preveau and Albert Jones, the latter also city marshall of Bay St. Louis, left the county citadel and quietly motored out Washington Street into the peaceful precinct of Edwardsville and raided two stills and found two places where liquor was held in possession. It was like a bolt from a clear sky.

One 40-gallon still in active operation was found and also a 30-gallon still going full blast.

Four prisoners were taken to the courthouse, along with two stills, paraphernalia, liquors, demijohns, etc. Bond was set at $500 each.

The Sea Coast Echo is there.

"100 Years of Service"

Avoid big roof repairs with a little protective maintenance

There are few things more comforting than having a good roof over your head. But your roof takes a tremendous beating from sun, rain, hail—even flying debris.

The conditions can cause all sort of embrittlement problems for both the roof covering and also the sealers that keep water out around vents, pipes, flash-

6", make sure the underlying roof structure is not damaged. If the structure is sound, cut a piece of roofing material similar to the existing roof at least 4" larger than the hole in all directions. Then apply the roof cement and follow the other steps for small holes.

For blisters, which usually signal a damp area underneath, composition shingles can be refastened with plastic cement.

Split shingles—composition or wood—are best repaired with metal shingles sold at repair centers. Simply slide them under the spot and cover all spaces where water can enter.

Broken ridges must be replaced with a material comparable to the one now on your roof. See your dealer for these replacements.

ings and drains.

Tips for a longer roof life

Here are a few tips for homeowners and farmers with outdoor structures that can help you prevent problems and dramatically extend your roof's useful life.

Small holes and breaks in roofs made of asphalt composition, mineral-surfaced capsheet or smooth-surface coatings are easily repaired. Cover with a 1/8" to 1/4" layer of roof cement, pressed into the damaged area and over a surrounding area of about 4". Do the same for raised edges after cutting off all loose material.

If the damaged area is more than 1/3" wide or 2" long, put roof repair fabric in the cement, cover completely with cement and feather the edges.

Repairing large holes

When holes are larger than cut with an "X" pattern, being careful not to go deeper than the raised area. Next, peel back the flaps, remove loose material and dry the exposed area very thoroughly. Then put roof cement into the blister, fold the flaps of the cut back into place and follow the regular procedure for repairing holes.

To repair flashings (the waterproof joints between roofs and walls, chimneys and roof-top equipment), first remove any loose material and clean the entire area thoroughly.

Next, cover the damaged area with roof cement 1/8" to 1/4" thick, extending at least 6" beyond the damage on all sides. Embed roof fabric, cover with cement and feather the edges.

Replacing shingles

If your roof has composition or wood shingles, you may have loose, missing or curled shingles and broken ridges. Loose be combined with coordinated wallcoverings for added detail and visual interest.

Applied at chair rail height, for example, they can be used to separate one wallcovering pattern from another.

Borders can also be used to accent doors or windows. A border near the ceiling featuring a trompe l'oeil pattern will add architectural interest to a plain room.

If planning a do-it-yourself decorating project to make the budget go further, consider borders that have already been pasted and trimmed. All you need to do is dip them in water and smooth them onto the wall. Be sure the walls are clean and dry and that all picture hooks are removed and any cracks or holes filled and sanded.

Borders are designed for years of sturdy service. Yet accidents do happen on occasion. Should an edge work loose or a small tear appear, apply paste to the wall as well as the back of the loose or torn piece of border. Press it in place, roll is smooth with a seam roller and wipe off any excess paste.

In the case of nicks or small holes, paste a larger piece of border over the damaged spot. Be sure to match the pattern exactly. Let the patch set for an hour. Then, use a razor knife to cut through both layers. Clear the area and repaste the top piece. Wait 15 minutes before rolling the fitted edges smooth.
